

Corey Cooper, Boston Analytics

Corey Cooper is an Engagement Manager at Boston Analytics, a leading consulting firm that helps clients leverage data, technology, and strategy to transform their businesses and achieve their goals. With an MBA in Management of Technology and Finance, Corey has over ten years of experience in business analysis and consulting. He has worked with diverse industries and sectors, such as city government, environmental management, space/aerospace, and academia. He has successfully led and managed multiple projects, ranging from developing digital platforms for higher education institutions, to firm scaling and start-up work, to designing smart city initiatives.